

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF MISSISSIPPI
JACKSON DIVISION

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

VS.

CRIMINAL NO. 3:12cr141 KS-FKB

SPENCER P. COPELAND

ORDER

This cause is before the Court on Motion to Sever Defendant [51], Motion for Disclosure of Expert Witness Summaries, Etc. [52], Motion for Disclosure of Promises, Etc. [53] and Motion for Joinder with Other Defendants' Motions [64] filed by defendant Spencer P. Copeland herein. The Court has considered the pending motions and finds as follows, to-wit:

The only remaining defendant in this case is Spencer P. Copeland and therefore the Motion to Sever Defendant [51] is moot.

The Assistant United States Attorney has stated that there are no expert witnesses to be called in the trial of this case therefore the Motion for Disclosure of Expert Witnesses [52] is moot.

The Assistant United States Attorney has stated that the defendant Spencer P. Copeland has been provided the details of the Plea Agreements and that there is nothing further to disclose regarding promises, etc., and therefore the Motion for Disclosure of Promises, Etc. [53] is moot.

The Motion for Joinder [64] is granted in part and denied in part. The Joinder of defendant Spencer P. Copeland herein in the Motions filed by other defendants are as follows:

Document [54] is a Motion for Bill of Particulars filed by former defendant H. Claiborne

Frazier. By virtue of the Joinder, Spencer P. Copeland joins in this Motion for Bill of Particulars. The Court has reviewed the Motion for Bill of Particulars [54] and finds that the Motion applies to Count I of the Indictment which does not pertain to Spencer P. Copeland. Defendant herein is only indicted on Count II and therefore this Motion is moot. In addition, the Court has reviewed the government's response to the Motion and the Motion as well as the Indictment and other documents herein. The Court finds that the Indictment comports with the requirements of Fed.R.Crim.P. 7 and with existing federal law regarding the constitutional sufficiency of the Indictment and the adequate notice to the defendant. Additionally, the government has furnished significant discovery pursuant to this Court's Discovery Order [14]. This Court has reviewed the Indictment and finds that as this case now stands, it is a one-count Indictment against one defendant. The underlying offenses are clearly set forth in the Indictment and the conspiracy charge is adequately explained in the Indictment and is certainly sufficient to allow the defendant to prepare his defense, to avoid or minimize the danger of surprise and to enable him to plead his acquittal or conviction in bar for the prosecution for the same offense. The Indictment details the money trail which incorporates the overt acts in carrying out the conspiracy, and this Court finds that the Motion herein, joined by defendant Spencer Copeland is not well taken and should be denied.

The Motion for Disclosure of Jencks Materials [57] requests this Court to order an early disclosure of Jencks material. This Court notes that a Discovery Order [14] was entered in this case which required the government to disclose five calendar days prior to the trial on the merits "all statements of witnesses as defined in Rule 26.2, Fed.R.Crim.P. and §3500(e) Title 18 United States Code, except that if the defendant has listed an expected government witness as an expected witness, then the United States Attorney has no obligation to provide a statement of the witness until just prior to direct examination of that witness by the United States in its case in chief.” This Court finds that the request for the statements filed herein requesting early disclosure of Jencks material has not been shown to be necessary. The remaining count of this Indictment is a straightforward conspiracy to commit money laundering. The movant has shown no unusual circumstances to cause this Court to find that the standard Order of Disclosure should be deviated from. Additionally, both sides understand the obligation to furnish Jencks materials at the appropriate time, and this Court presumes that same will be accomplished.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the remaining Motions herein , [54] and [57] are denied. The remaining Motions including defendant Austin W. Frazier’s Motions numbered [55], [56], [58], [59], [60] and [61] are moot.

SO ORDERED this the 1st day of October, 2013.
